The dealings on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday were mainly confined to the professional traders, who play for points, and who do not plunge very deeply on either side, being satisfied with small and quick profits, and accepting slight losses rather than take the risk of bringing prices back to their figures. With such an element in control of she speculation it was not expected that the dealings would be large or the fluctuations wide. The volume of business was contracted and the for some specialties, in which a slight pressure to sell resulted in a heavy decline. There were some selling orders from London, but they did not cut any considerable figure in the trading. They were based on the belief, which is gaining ground gradually-abroad as well | 54c. as at home—that the inaction in the Senate and the dilatory tactics of the silver States Senators means the defeat of unconditional repeal and the disturbance of the national finances. It is the silver cloud resting over the monetary situation that prevents the many favorable conditions from having effect as on Saturday, when the bank statement, favorable though it was beyond the expectation of the street, failed to do more than rally prices a fraction. So far as the money market could be depended to influence the speculation it was entirely favorable. The receipts of currency from the interior were larger both yesterday and on Saturday, and outof-town savings banks are in the market as purchasers of bonds sold during the days when all financial institutions were strengthening their cash balances to meet a pessible drain on their resources. to the Heavy Buying.

Increase in Visible Supply of Wheat Reduced Its Price While Provisions Showed More Strength.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. - Corn was the leader to-day in activity and strength. The market for that cereal advanced in spite of enormous receipts. Wheat had a good deal to contend with in the shape of a break in the weather, the increasing primary market receipts and visible supply, and it succumbed to the extent of 40 decline. Corn had also much to bear up against, but the bulls in that article, instead of forgetting all the strong features of the situation, appeared to have concluded that their buying could be more advantageously done now than if they waited until the receipts dried up. The market closed with a gain of about 40c. Provisions were stiff on the yellow fever

Wheat at the opening was % @ se lower and quickly sold off 'se more for December. then advanced &c. again weakened and prices declined & @ so, fluctuated somewhat and the closing was about 38@140 lower for December and 14c lower for May than the closing figures Saturday. English cables were reported 4d lower, there was an increase of 1,160,000 bushels in the quantity of wheat on ocean passage, the shipments from India were larger and it rained, which was more favorable for fall plowing and seeding. There was pretty free seiling, and the market turned decidedly weak when the visible supply showed an increase of 1,191,000 bushels, against an increase of 2,651,000 bushels a Year ago.

The firmness in corn was due, in a measure, to quite liberal shipments reported from this market. The increase in the visible supply-805,000 bushels-was smaller than generally anticipated, and this had a stimulating effect temporarily. Short purchased rather freely, and the long interest enlarged their lines. Opening prices were 4c lower, but soon a gradual improvement of 340 was gained, the near deliveries showing the greater strength. During the middle of the session the feeling was quiet and prices easier, settling back & @ bc. At the decline the demand improved considerably, especially for May delivery, and prices rallied to outside figures and the market closed strong.

There was a weak and lower opening in oats. Sales were at 18@40 decline, but later a stronger feeling developed and prices advanced % @34c, and the close was strong at about the top, with a net gain of 4 @ sc. Trading was only fair. The vistble supply decreased 967,000 bushels, but local stocks increased 77,000 bushels last

There were a few buying orders from the outside in the provision pit, but it was found impossible to fill them at the price they were limited to for want of sellers. A bid of the previous quetation met with no response when an attempt was made to fill a buying order, and prices were advanced | seed, 1,100 bags. on very few trades. Compared with Saturday night, pork is up 824c, lard .124c, and ribs .12 4c.

Freights were firm with a fair demand at le for wheat and 1 be for corn to Buttalo. Estimated receipts for to-morrow are: wheat, 300 cars; corn. 1,450 cars; oats, 570 cars; hogs. 19,000. The leading futures ranged as follows:

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The week opens with the New York dry-goods market showing up in good form and recovering steadily from the derangement caused by the recent auction sale. Ginghams are in demand on mail orders and improved spot call. The same is true of prints and bleached and brown cottons, the better grades of dress goods and silks also showing a wider distribution. For hosiery and undergarments there is a steady market. Woolens in a general way are showing an improving demand on hurry orders from the country, while the local demand for this class of goods is rather subsiding. Recent duli business has broken up assortments somewhat, and difficulty in getting some of the more popular tickets in the way of fancy ging-hams and other cotton goods and the late advance in the price of raw material, in connection with the reduced supplies of manufactured goods, is leading increased firmness on the part of hold-

Stephen White, Coffeen. The Pastures.

Philade'phia Record. One excellent plan for keeping up the fertility of the pasture land is to divide the pastures into two fields, giving the cattle the advantage of a portion of the pasturage, leaving one field to grow, and so remain until spring. This method simply protects the pasture from close cropping, which is sure to cause exhaustion at some period, as every time the graze over the pasture it is equivalent to so many mowings of the grass. By protecting the pasture there is a | farmer and business man in the State. loss of its use at this season, but a greater longevity of the grasses of the pasture is | All such matters will be set forth in secured. The best season for the renewal of pastures is in the fall, and more growth and greater density can be had by allowing the pasture grass to grow and thicken than to attempt to reseed the pasture early in the spring.

The pasture land receives a heavy drain on its fertility when it supports a herd of cattle, and unless the land is assisted in some manner the supply of grass may fail on the first approach of dry weather. It is only when plants have strong and vigorous roots, with nonrishment within easy reach, that they can endure the lack of moisture and severe warm weather. The milk and meat sold off the farm carries away the phosphates and nitrogen, and other substances are also taken from the soil as well. Finely ground bone, or any form of phosphates. will give good results on pasture land, but the best fertilizer is wood ashes which contain lime as well as potash. The benefits from stable manure are well known, but it is always a safe rate to use phosphates and potash in some form. In the spring a light application of nitrate of soda will cause the grass to make rapid growth. The point to observe is to avoid grazing the pastures too closely, and also to use manure or fertilizers as liberally as for any other

To remove mildew, stir a quarter of a pound of chloride of lime in a gallon of cold water; after setting an hour, pour off the clear liquids and soak the mildewed cotton or linen in it for two hours, wash well and expose to the sun. It works like a charm.

DAILY.

SUNDAY

AND

The Journal's price for daily is only 15 cents a week, and it has a very wide circulation, reaching a large number of people hitherto unable to afford the luxury of a first-class daily paper. Reports from agents and subscribers indicate a continued increase, and that what used to be regarded as a luxury has become a necessity. The new readers not only remain, but they are constantly increasing.

It is the purpose of the Journal to make itself even more indispensable to its patrons, new and old, and to still further widen its field. To this end it will not only endeavor to maintain the characteristics which have established its reputation as by far the best newspaper in Indiana, but will add such new features and improvements from time to time as are in accord with journalistic progress and that may tend to the advantage of its readers. It will, for example, give increased attention to State and local interests. What Indianians want is a paper in which Indiana affairs are given especial prominence andimportance. This want the Journal has always supplied as no other paper published outside or inside the State is able to do; but the rapidly developing industries and business and social enterprises of the community call for additional consideration and space, With this in view its corps of correspondents has been increased until ithas a representative in nearly every town in the State Special traveling correspondents will visit the news centers of the State at frequent intervals, thus insuring the "write up" of every important event or matter of general interest.

Being published in the geographical center of Indiana the Journal is afforded unusual facilities for securing news promptly, and, what is of greater consequence, is able to reach its subscribers without delay. The ruuning of morning trains from Indianapolis is very favorable to the early distribution of papers sent by mail or express, and in most towns within a radius of a hundred miles Journals are delivered as early as in the city where they are printed. In the more remote counties there is but little loss of time in transportation. The Journal is the paper for Indianians and particularly for Indiana Republicans. The change of administration involves the settlement of political problems likely to be of the most direct personal concern to every detail, the Journal's Washington correspondent being instructed to give especial attention to every hing having a possible bearing on Indiana interests. But though the Journal is Republican in politics it is non-partisan in the publication of news. Its constantendeavor is to secure facts unbiased by prejudice and to make its columns trustworthy records of each day's happenings. A large editorial force supplements the work of the press associations and the correspondents, and furnishes careful supervision for each department.

The Sunday Journal has a well-established literary character, superior to that of any Western paper. It is not defaced by "plate matter" nor filled with a heterogeneous mass of syndicate literature, but its contributions and miscellany are chosen with a view to their special fitness and adaptability to the tastes of the readers. The reading matter in any given number of the Sunday Journal is equal in quantity and is not inferior in quality to that found in the leading magazines. As an educational adjunct and a source of entertainment the Sunday Journal is indispensable in every well-regulated family.

The Weekly Journal, at $1 per year, contains more reading matter than can be obtained for the money in any other shape. It is carefully edited and offers the news of the week in condensed shape and a variety of miscellany," agricultural and household literature that render it one of the best investments that any family can make. Try it and see. It has a large circulation in this and other States and agents find it an easy matter to secure large lists of subscribers. Special inducements offered to agents.
